

April: WRITING: Feature Article/Opinion/Argument

Content Area: English
Course(s):
Time Period: April
Length: 6-8 Weeks
Status: Published

Unit Overview

Text Type: Opinion/Argument

Feature articles are informative, explanatory pieces that profile people, examine a topic, analyze events, explore trends, evoke an emotional response, and cover in-depth stories. Feature article writers begin with an introduction that captures readers' attention, provide a unique point of view or perspective, often state an opinion or make an argument, employ a variety of research (books, reference materials, interviews, etc.), and end with a concluding section that provides a sense of closure or finality. In this unit students will determine the purpose of feature articles as well as their prevalence and importance in our world. Students will read and analyze the characteristics of feature articles and then publish a clear and coherent feature article of their own. Following publication of their feature articles, students will then write an editorial essays, thereby replicating a familiar real-world process in which feature articles often appear in newspapers, in magazines, or on web sites and then prompt subsequent editorials in which the editorial writers state their own opinions, claims, and/or arguments.

Enduring Understandings

Authors write feature articles for a variety of reasons, such as exploring and analyzing an event or topic , exploring trends, or evoking an emotional response.

Feature articles often state an opinion.

Feature articles are an important resource for readers to understand the world.

Essential Questions

What is a feature article and what purpose does it serve?

How does a writer write a feature article successfully?

Mini-Lessons

Generating Ideas I: Determining What Is Important

uses George Washington's Teeth by Deborah Chandra and Madeleine Comora and "E-Trash: What Happens to Our Old Electronics" by Rachel H. (from the Feature Article Shared Texts).

Rationale: Feature articles are non-news, general interest pieces written to inform and entertain readers about a range of topics, subjects, and human interest stories. As writers of feature articles, students will think about topics that fascinate them. They will also consider their audiences' reading interests and begin to generate ideas for topics that will be engaging.

Common Core State Standards: W.4.2, W.4.4, W.4.5, W.4.7, W.4.8, W.4.9, W.4.10, SL.4.1, SL.4.2, SL.4.3, SL.4.4, SL.4.6, L.4.1, L.4.2, L.4.3, L.4.6

Generating Ideas II: I'm an Expert!

uses "Penguins on Parade" by Tamar L. (from the Feature Article Shared Texts) and Soccer in Action by Niki Walker and Sarah Dann.

Rationale: Feature article writers are, or become, experts on a topic. This expertise allows them to share the best information with their readers. Students will examine topics on which they are, or want to become, experts in order to generate ideas for writing.

Common Core State Standards: W.4.2, W.4.4, W.4.5, W.4.7, W.4.8, W.4.9, W.4.10, SL.4.1, SL.4.2, SL.4.3, SL.4.6, L.4.1, L.4.2, L.4.3, L.4.6

Generating Ideas III: Finding Interesting Things About Your Interests

uses Animal Minis! by Cherie Winner.

Rationale: Feature article writers explore their interests in detail to find topics that they and their readers will find fascinating. Students will brainstorm topics that interest them and work to generate additional ideas and questions to develop the topics.

Common Core State Standards: W.4.2, W.4.4, W.4.5, W.4.7, W.4.8, W.4.9, W.4.10, SL.4.1, SL.4.2, SL.4.3, SL.4.4, SL.4.6, L.4.1, L.4.2, L.4.3, L.4.6

Selecting: Finding Your Topic

uses “Getting Back Up With Lindsey Vonn” by Andrew D. (from the Feature Article Shared Texts).

Rationale: Writers sift through their notebooks to find the entry or idea they want to continue working on and publish. Students will reread their notebook entries, select a topic they would like to develop into a published piece, and then consider possible “angles” and audiences for their topics.

Common Core State Standards: W.4.2, W.4.4, W.4.5, W.4.7, W.4.8, W.4.9, W.4.10, SL.4.1, SL.4.2, SL.4.3, SL.4.4, SL.4.6, L.4.1, L.4.2, L.4.3, L.4.4, L.4.6

Collecting I: Research or Gathering Information From Various Sources

uses Animal Minis! by Cherie Winner.

Rationale: Writers of feature articles need to determine what information they know and what they need to find out.

Students will begin to gather resources to research and collect additional information to develop their topics.

Collecting II: Choosing Your Angle

uses “Getting Back Up With Lindsey Vonn” by Andrew D. (from the Feature Article Shared Texts).

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.

• Definitions of Differentiation Components:

- Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
- Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
- Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
- Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Differentiated through topic selection, paragraph construction, additional challenges as needed, support as needed.

Modifications & Accommodations

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMODATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Modifications and Accommodations used in this unit:

Modifications and accommodations in accordance with individual IEP's.

Benchmark Assessments

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Aimsweb benchmarks 3X a year

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

DRA

Additional Benchmarks used in this unit:

Writing Samples and AIMS web

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

re-writing activities embedded in the lessons.

Rough draft construction.

successful writing process progression.

Summative Assessments

Summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit:

Student Self-Reflection:

uses a self-reflection questionnaire.

Rationale: For students to develop a sense of themselves as writers, they need to spend time reflecting on the work they have done and its meaning as part of their growth as writers.
