LA.RH.6-8.8	Distinguish among fact, opinion, and reasoned judgment in a text.
LA.RH.6-8.9	Analyze the relationship between a primary and secondary source on the same topic.

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.

- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.
- Definitions of Differentiation Components:
 - Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
 - Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
 - Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
 - Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Differentiation

Learners Reading and Writing Below Grade Level

- Support Comprehension Provide photocopies of the book pages for Section 2. As students read these pages, have them highlight or underline, in color, the significance of each environmental factor discussed. Suggest that they use blue for water, brown for topography, and green for vegetation. Later, as students complete their Reading Notes, encourage them to use the highlighted information and to record their notes for each factor in the same three colors.

Conduct a Prewriting Activity For the Processing activity, have students first complete their maps. Then, pair students to discuss their ideas for the paragraph response. Encourage students to use these ideas as they write their paragraphs.

Learners with Special Education Needs

- Use Representatives During the Experiential Exercise, use name tags to represent the presence of group members during the settlement part of the activity. Have students write their names on pieces of construction paper. They can ask a peer to place their names in the specific areas where they would choose to settle.

Provide an Outline Map For the Processing activity, provide a simple outline map of your state. Also consider labeling one or more important physical features to serve as a clue to identifying other features.

Advanced Learners

- Use Thematic Maps After students have modeled and settled the map of each area in the Experiential Exercise, give small groups of students copies of thematic maps to examine. Consider using a physical features map, including elevation; a vegetation map; and/or a climate map. Ask students, Where would you settle? Did your location change from before? Why or why not? How did environmental factors affect your decision?
- Repeat, reword, clarify directions
- Paragraph graphic organizers to provide writing support
- Check in to ensure understanding before moving on to new concepts.
- Analyze mentor text to demonstrate model paragraph

Modifications & Accommodations

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMODATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Modifications and Accommodations used in this unit:

Follow IEP accommodations and differentiation as listed above.

Benchmark Assessments

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Aimsweb benchmarks 3X a year

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

Additional Benchmarks used in this unit:

Sentence construction, map skills analysis and creation, paragraph writing

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

See assessment embedded in lessons above

Summative Assessments

Summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit:
