Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.
- Definitions of Differentiation Components:
 - Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
 - Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
 - Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
 - Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Learners with Special Needs

- Modify the Letter-Writing Activity Modify the letter-writing activity so that students choose only one site to describe in a single paragraph. You might also provide a template that illustrates the proper format for writing a letter.
Modify and Model the Peer-Checking Activity For the peer-checking activity, consider scaling back the number of items that students must look for in the draft letters. Then, before students begin the peer-checking activity, model the process by making a transparency of a draft letter and going through it together, as a class.
- Prepare a Hint Sheet Prepare a hint sheet to help students complete the Reading Notes for this lesson. It should list in random order all the answers provided in the Guide to Reading Notes. Give students this sheet before they begin the “felucca tour.” As students read each section of text, they can refer to the hint sheet to complete their postcards.
- Provide the Postcard Checklist for additional structure to complete each postcard.
Highlight Key Words on Each Copy of the Station Directions For example, you might highlight direction words such as examine, list, and discuss. You might also highlight specific factual information needed to complete the Reading Notes or to do the station’s activity.
Provide a Copy of Guide to Reading Notes from the Lesson Guide As students visit each site on the tour, have them highlight the important facts that they find in the given answers for that site.

Advanced Learners

- Have Students Research Additional Information for Their Postcards For each of the sites students visit on their felucca tour, have them do additional research on the Internet or in a library about the pharaoh (Khufu, Senusret I, Hatshepsut, Ramses the Great) and/or the monument (the Great Pyramid, the White Chapel, the temple at Dayr al-Bahri, the temple at Abu Simbel). Have students incorporate this information into their Reading Notes postcards and into their final writing assignment.
Have Students Create a Journal of Their Felucca Tour Use these directions for an alternative or additional writing assignment:
Create a four-page journal describing your felucca tour of ancient Egyptian monuments. Use your Reading Notes to help you complete the journal. Be sure to use correct grammar and spelling. Each page of your journal should be about your visit to a different site and must include these parts:
 - A short paragraph describing each new destination, including the direction and approximate distance from the previous location.
 - A paragraph describing the site you visited, including some description of the art or architecture of the monument at that site, and any other interesting information or facts about the site or monument.
 - A paragraph discussing the pharaoh who built the monument at that site, including when he or she ruled, what kind of ruler he or she was, and what some of his or her most important or interesting accomplishments were.
 - At least two photographs, artifacts, or souvenirs from your visit to the site. These items should relate to something you wrote about in your journal. Write a short caption describing each item.

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

See assessments in lesson plans above.

Summative Assessments

Summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.
