Content Area: English
Course(s):
Time Period: November
Length: 1-40 Weeks
Status: Published

Unit Overview

This unit is to be taught as lessons wherever they fit within the writing units, not as a stand alone unit. Each lesson and mini-lesson covers various grammar and convention topics with mentor texts.

Enduring Understandings

There are grammar and writing conventions that need to be followed in order to be a clear communicator in the English Language.

Essential Questions

What English Grammar and writing conventions does a writer need to follow in order to be a clear communicator?

Instructional Strategies & Learning Activities

Text Layout

Lesson 1: Interactive Read-Aloud

How Pictures and Words Are Placed on the Page uses Knuffle Bunny Free: An Unexpected Diversion by Mo Willems.

Rationale: Text layout considers how pictures and words are placed on the page. It also determines how the story is read. Students will notice how writers use the placement of pictures and words on a page to affect the readers' experiences with the story. This will give them the opportunity to demonstrate their understanding of the organization and basic features of print and layout (as mentioned in the CCLS Reading Foundational Standards).

Common Core State Standards: RF.1.1, RL.1.1, RL.1.2, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6

Lesson 2: Interactive Read-Aloud

Features Matter! uses Giraffes Can't Dance by Giles Andreae and Knuffle Bunny Free: An Unexpected Diversion by Mo Willems.

Rationale: Writers use a variety of different fonts and features of type in order to enhance or convey different meanings. Students will learn how text formats such as writing words in shapes and text features such as boldface, capitalization, and italics convey particular meanings and emotions in a story.
Common Core State Standards: RF.1.1, RL.1.1, RL.1.2, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6

Lesson 3: Mini-Lesson

It's All Part of the Plan uses Knuffle Bunny Free: An Unexpected Diversion by Mo Willems.

Rationale: Writers consider the layout and organization of letters, words, sentences, and pictures when they plan their stories. Students will look in their Writing Folders to select an idea and then consider how to use pictures, text features, and words to best express their thinking.

Common Core State Standards: RF.1.1, RL.1.1, RL.1.2, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, W.1.3, W.1.8

THE FUNDAMENTALS OF GRAMMAR AND CONVENTIONS

Capitalization

Lesson 1: Interactive Read-Aloud

When to Use Capital Letters uses Read Anything Good Lately? by Susan Allen and Jane Lindaman.

Rationale: Writers use uppercase and lowercase letters in their writing to represent different kinds of words, names, and titles. Students will learn to recognize that there are certain kinds of words that need to begin with capital, or uppercase, letters.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, L.1.2

Lesson 2: Mini-Lesson

Using Capital Letters uses Read Anything Good Lately? by Susan Allen and Jane Lindaman.

Rationale: Students have learned to use a capital letter for the first word of a sentence, the word "I," and their first and last names. Students will review the rules for capitalization and practice using capital letters correctly. Students will also remember to use capital letters for dates and names of people.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, L.1.2

Punctuation

Lesson 1: Interactive Read-Aloud

All the Right Questions Have Question Marks uses How Are You Peeling? by Saxton Freymann and Joost Elffers.

Rationale: Writers use question marks at the end of sentences when they are asking questions that need answers or when they are seeking information. Students will recognize how writers and illustrators use question marks at the end of sentences in order to ask questions and get information.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.2

Lesson 2: Interactive Read-Aloud

Exclamation Points Are Exciting! uses I Love My New Toy! by Mo Willems.

Rationale: Writers use exclamation points at the end of sentences when they want to convey the emotion of excitement. The exclamation point shows that the statement should be read and interpreted energetically and expressively. Students will be introduced to exclamation points and how to use them in their own writing.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.2

Lesson 3: Mini-Lesson

The End Is Important, Too! uses I Love My New Toy! by Mo Willems, How Are You Peeling? by Saxton Freymann and Joost Elffers, and a teacher-created text.

Rationale: Writers use end mark punctuation to convey meaning and to help their readers understand what they've written. Students will discover the many uses of end mark punctuation and will recognize the effects it has on the way a sentence or text is read.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.2

THE FUNDAMENTALS OF GRAMMAR AND CONVENTIONS

Lesson 4: Mini-Lesson

Commas Are Important, Too! uses How Are You Peeling? by Saxton Freymann and Joost Elffers.

Rationale: Writers use commas to separate thoughts or ideas in a sentence or to use when writing dates. Students will learn when to use a comma and observe when it's included in dates and sentences that contain a list or series of thoughts or ideas.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.2

Parts of Speech

Lesson 1: Mini-Lesson

All Kinds of Nouns uses Knuffle Bunny Free: An Unexpected Diversion by Mo Willems and the shared text "Bernie the Elephant."

Rationale: Writers learn about parts of speech to inform the choices they make when sharing their ideas in written and spoken form. Students will learn about nouns (or naming words), specifically discussing common nouns and proper nouns.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1

Lesson 2: Interactive Read-Aloud

Let's Learn About Verbs uses If You Were a Verb by Michael Dahl and the shared text "Identifying the Action:

Batter Up!”

Rationale: A verb is an action word. Writers use verbs to tell their readers what is happening. Students will learn how to recognize verbs, how writers use them to show action, and the important role they play in sentences.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1

Lesson 3: Mini-Lesson

Let’s Learn About Prepositions uses the shared text “My Birthday.”

Rationale: Writers use prepositions to help readers understand their thoughts. They use them to make sentences longer, to tell where and when something happened, and to add clarity to their texts. Students will practice identifying prepositions and prepositional phrases and will apply this knowledge to their own writing.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, W.1.3

Lesson 4: Interactive Read-Aloud

Delightful, Descriptive Adjectives uses If You Were an Adjective by Michael Dahl.

Rationale: Writers use adjectives to describe the nouns they write about. Students will discover that adjectives describe nouns and make sentences come alive by creating images and evoking emotions for readers.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1

Lesson 5: Interactive Read-Aloud

Modifiers Let Us See Images uses Rain by Manya Stojic.

Rationale: A modifier is a word or phrase that acts like an adjective or an adverb. Modifiers spice up sentences with extra details. Students will notice how modifiers that are connected to the senses help readers “see” and “experience” a description.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1

Lesson 6: Mini-Lesson

Magnificent Modifiers uses Rain by Manya Stojic.

modifiers when listening or reading and then try them out in their own writing in order to make their sentences snappy.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, W.1.3

Lesson 7: Mini-Lesson

Rationale: Writers use interesting sentences to engage their readers. Students will continue to learn some basic rules and get some tips about how to construct an exciting, interesting sentence. Then they will practice using adjectives, nouns, and verbs correctly and effectively in their own writing.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1

Sentence Structure

Lesson 1: Interactive Read-Aloud

The Structure of Sentences uses My Big Brother by Valorie Fisher.

Rationale: A sentence has two basic parts: a subject and a verb. The subject is who or what the sentence is about.

The verb tells what the subject does. It is an action word. Students will learn how to identify subjects and verbs in sentences.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, W.1.3

Lesson 2: Interactive Read-Aloud

Clear Ideas and Interesting Structure uses My Garden by Kevin Henkes.

Rationale: Writers structure their stories so readers can follow and enjoy them. Some writers even use descriptive lists to organize their writing. Students will discover how a list structure allows writers to explore and share a theme in depth.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, W.1.3

Lesson 3: Mini-Lesson

Sentences Make Sense! uses My Big Brother by Valorie Fisher and My Garden by Kevin Henkes.

Rationale: The power of conventional sentence structure can be seen in simple sentences that reflect a subject (noun) and the action (verb) that's linked to the subject. Students will notice this structure as well as how writers vary their sentence lengths.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, W.1.3

Lesson 4: Mini-Lesson

Telling a Story That Makes Sense uses My Garden by Kevin Henkes and the shared text "How to Take Care of a Sunflower."

Rationale: Writers use a variety of story structures depending on the story they have to tell. One common way to tell a story is to relate events in the order in which they happened. Students will work with a partner to tell a story with a focused sequence and order.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, W.1.3

Lesson 5: Interactive Read-Aloud

Joining Words Are Called Conjunctions uses Rain by Manya Stojic, Giraffes Can't Dance by Giles Andreae, and the shared text "The Princess."

Rationale: Writers use conjunctions to link words, phrases, clauses, and sentences together. They also use them to compare and contrast two parts of a sentence. Students will learn how to use one or more conjunctions in a sentence and recognize how conjunctions are used in the texts they read.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, W.1.3

Culminating Mini-Lesson

Culminating Mini-Lesson uses all of the mentor texts from the unit and a sample draft to edit.

Rationale: Writers adhere to grammatical structures and make conventional decisions when they write.

Students

will remember that all sentences begin with a capital letter and end with an appropriate end mark; that every sentence has a subject (noun) and a verb in order to make it complete; and that in order to make sentences interesting, writers often use precise nouns, exciting adjectives, and powerful verbs.

Common Core State Standards: RL.1.1, RL.1.3, SL.1.1, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, L.1.2

Integration of Career Readiness, Life Literacies and Key Skills

Interdisciplinary Connections

English language grammar and writing conventions are necessary in all disciplines.

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.

- Definitions of Differentiation Components:
 - Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
 - Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
 - Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
 - Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Student Strengths and weaknesses will be assessed and monitored, and individualized/differentiated learning will be assigned as appropriate.

Modifications & Accommodations

IEP accommodations, and modifications will be in place, and teacher assigned modifications and accommodations will be assigned, assessed, and monitored as deemed necessary.

Follow IEP accommodations and differentiate materials, project requirements as needed.

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMODATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Modifications and Accommodations used in this unit:

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

Discussions

Writing practice and worksheets

Teacher conferences

Teacher Observations

Benchmark Assessments

Writing Sample assessment given twice a year

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Aimsweb benchmarks 3X a year

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

DRA

Additional Benchmarks used in this unit:

Summative Assessments

summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit:

Assessments on grammar and writing conventions as developed in the units.

Teacher made assessments for grammar and writing conventions.
