April Gr. 1 WRITING: Fiction: With book review

Content Area: English
Course(s):
Time Period: April
Length: 6-8 Weeks
Status: Published

Unit Overview

Text Type: Opinion/Argument

Schoolwide's Fiction unit (w/ Book Review included) emphasizes the imaginative nature of fiction while encouraging students to see how fiction writers often draw their inspiration and material from real life. The fiction books in this unit are especially well suited for first grade readers because they offer imaginative plots and creative casts of characters that touch on real themes to which your students will readily relate. The problems our heroes encounter and solve and the life lessons they learn are all age-appropriate experiences that mirror feelings and events first grade students are undergoing in their own lives. When young readers feel a connection between themselves and the stories they read, they are much more eager and motivated to create their own stories for others to read. In addition, because so many of the books seem to come from the minds of young protagonists, the story elements are easy for students to recognize and emulate. Teachers will be delighted to see how enthusiastically students respond to seeing their own emotions and experiences reflected in the characters, narrators, plots, and themes of these wonderful books and how confidently they respond as writers to producing texts that mirror the writing strategies and genre features covered in the unit. This unit of study will allow students to not only enjoy many popular pieces of fiction but also form opinions about the books they have read. In their book reviews, students will describe the book they have read, offer an opinion about that book, supply a reason to support their opinion, and provide some sense of closure.

Enduring Understandings

Learning to write fiction using the same techniques and processes as real writers is fun and productive.

Essential Questions

How do authors get inspiration for thier stories, and what process do they use to be successful writers?

Instructional Strategies & Learning Activities

Immersion: Interactive Read-Aloud Lessons

Day 1:
Understanding and Appreciating Fiction
uses all of the mentor texts from the unit, particularly You Can Do It, Sam by Amy Hest.
Rationale: Fiction writers are storytellers who aim to entertain, provide enjoyment, reveal human nature, kindle the imagination, or explain aspects of life, culture, and nature. Students will be introduced to this fiction unit of study by exploring two types of fiction (realistic and fantasy) and comparing and contrasting the purposes, features, and structures of each.
Common Core State Standards: W.1.3, W.1.5, W.1.8, SL.1.1, SL.1.2, SL.1.3, SL.1.4, SL.1.5, SL.1.6, L.1.1, L.1.2, L.1.4, L.1.5, L.1.6

Day 2:
The Impact of Setting
uses You Can Do It, Sam by Amy Hest and Big Al by Andrew Clements.
Rationale: Fiction writers can make their readers feel like they are in their stories by clearly describing what the characters see and/or where the stories take place. Students will learn about the impact a clear setting can have on their readers.
Common Core State Standards: W.1.2, W.1.3, W.1.5, W.1.7, W.1.8, SL.1.1, SL.1.2, SL.1.3, SL.1.4, SL.1.5, SL.1.6, L.1.1, L.1.2, L.1.4, L.1.5, L.1.6

Day 3:
Connecting With Characters
uses When Sophie Gets Angry—Really, Really Angry . . . by Molly Bang.
Rationale: Fiction writers create and develop characters with diverse personalities and human qualities and who experience similar problems that the writers experience in their own lives. Students will recognize how fiction writers introduce main characters to their readers and how their qualities, characteristics, and emotions mirror those of people whom we encounter in our daily lives.
Common Core State Standards: W.1.3, W.1.5, W.1.8, SL.1.1, SL.1.2, SL.1.3, SL.1.4, SL.1.5, SL.1.6, L.1.1, L.1.2, L.1.4, L.1.5, L.1.6

Day 4:
Problems and Solutions
uses A Weekend With Wendell by Kevin Henkes.
Rationale: Fiction writers plan their stories by inventing characters and exploring possible problems they could encounter. Students will discover how stories are made more interesting when the writer stretches out the character's problem over several pages.
Common Core State Standards: W.1.1, W.1.2, W.1.5, W.1.7, W.1.8, SL.1.1, SL.1.2, SL.1.3, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, L.1.1, L.1.2, L.1.4, L.1.5, L.1.6

Day 5:
What Makes Realistic Fiction Funny?
uses Good Dog, Fergus! by David Shannon and Don't Let the Pigeon Stay Up Late! by Mo Willems.

Rationale: Fiction writers often make us laugh at the people, places, and things in our world. Students will describe their reactions to the events of a story using relevant details while expressing their ideas, thoughts, and feelings clearly.
Common Core State Standards: W.1.2, W.1.3, W.1.5, W.1.8, SL.1.1, SL.1.2, SL.1.3, SL.1.4, SL.1.5, SL.1.6, L.1.1,

Day 6:
Putting It All Together
uses Stand Tall, Molly Lou Melon by Pattie Lovell.
Rationale: Fiction writers use a structure that is organized and sequenced to orient readers, introduce them to their characters, develop experiences and events, and provide a conclusion that follows from the narrated experiences and events. Students will discover how all of the elements of fictional writing create a clear narrative structure.
Common Core State Standards: W.1.1, W.1.2, W.1.3, W.1.5, W.1.7, W.1.8, SL.1.1, SL.1.2, SL.1.3, SL.1.4, SL.1.6, Fergus! by David Shannon, and You Can Do It, Sam by Amy Hest.

Rationale: Fiction writers think about what effect they want to have on their readers before choosing the genre of fiction they want to write (realistic or fantasy) and the idea they wish to develop. Students will consider the type of fictional story they would like to write and the purpose for their writing, and they will select an idea from their Writing Folders based on the purpose, audience, and genre.

feeling, and/or tying up loose ends. Students will examine conclusions in the unit mentor texts and consider the best ways to conclude their own pieces.

their stories are about. Students will consider how the cover illustrations of unit books hint at the story's message and mood, and they will create cover illustrations for their own published pieces.
Common Core State Standards: W.1.2, W.1.3, W.1.5, W.1.6, W.1.7, W.1.8, SL.1.1, SL.1.2, SL.1.3, SL.1.4, SL.1.5,

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.

- Definitions of Differentiation Components:

  o Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
  o Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
  o Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
  o Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

  Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Student Strengths and weaknesses will be assessed and monitored, and individualized/differentiated learning will be assigned as appropriate.

Modifications & Accommodations

IEP accommodations, and modifications will be in place, and teacher assigned modifications and accommodations will be assigned, assessed, and monitored.

Follow IEP accommodations and differentiate materials, project requirements as needed.

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMOCATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Modifications and Accommodations used in this unit:

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

Discussions

Teacher conferences

anecdotal records

Appendices from the unit

Benchmark Assessments

Writing Sample administered twice a year.

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Aimsweb benchmarks 3X a year

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

DRA

Additional Benchmarks used in this unit:

Summative Assessments

summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit:

Student Self-Reflection
uses a self-reflection questionnaire.
Rationale: All writers engage regularly in self-reflection to learn and grow as writers. Students will reflect on their growing understanding of the writing process and the features that fiction writers use in their pieces.

Finial writing piece assessment
