Unit Overview

Readers of all ages are drawn to fiction, and it may very well be the genre students are most likely to choose as they search through a library or bookstore. Fiction stories are typically the most familiar to students. These are the stories they remember hearing when they were younger—often told and retold from generation to generation and from one culture to another. Each story takes you on a journey, an adventure, and an experience with memorable characters and events. The world is full of stories, and through stories we learn about ourselves and others.

Enduring Understandings

Students will: ■ Understand that there are subgenres of fiction that share the same purpose of enlightening, entertaining, and involving the audience in the life of the story; ■ Understand that fiction texts have particular elements and chronological structures; ■ Understand that there are different types of conflicts and resolutions present in fiction; ■ Recognize the power of historical settings and how fiction writers use history in their stories to shape characters and plot development; ■ Explore and evaluate characters' points of view and the effects differing points of view or perspectives have on a story; ■ Understand that the theme of a text is often a repeated idea that is extracted by the readers as they explore and analyze a text; ■ Question what they read with the goal of developing a deep understanding of the text and the author's purpose; ■ Actively read by keeping track of key events in a story and articulating their understanding by summarizing, posing questions, and seeking answers; ■ Recognize that fictional stories contain dialogue that propels the action, reveals aspects of characters, and/or provokes a decision; ■ Interpret and analyze literature by paying attention to specific words and phrases in order to determine the effect these words have in creating the mood and tone; ■ Expect comprehension challenges when reading fiction and apply self-monitoring skills and strategies to construct meaning; ■ Critically read texts to identify who is telling the story and from what point of view, as well as how these reliable or unreliable points of view contribute to the author's purpose across the text; ■ Recognize how particular themes are illustrated by motifs or repetition of images and phrases, which shed light on the theme; ■ Compare and contrast the structure of texts and analyze how the different structures contribute to the meaning and style; ■ Identify and compare modern-day literature that draws on the themes, characters, and patterns of traditional tales;

Troubleshooting a problem is more effective when knowledge of the specific device along with a systematic process is used to identify the source of a problem.

Interdisciplinary Connections

Various disciplines will be explored through group texts and individual leveled, choice texts.

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.
- Definitions of Differentiation Components:
 - Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
 - Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
 - Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
 - Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Students will have access to leveled libraries of a variety of texts and be able to choose based on interest.

Modifications & Accommodations

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMODATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Modifications and Accommodations used in this unit:

IEP and 504 accommodations will be utilized.

Benchmark Assessments

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Aimsweb benchmarks 3X a year

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

Additional Benchmarks used in this unit:

Writing Samples

Aimsweb

Linkit testing 3 times a year.

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

Discussion

Teacher observation

worksheets

projects

teacher made tests

Summative Assessments

Summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit:

Unit assessments

Summative Assessment Students will read the stories “The End of an Era” by Lisa Trow and “Apartment 4B” by Lisa Trow in order to answer selected and constructed response questions.
