Unit overview

Poe's stature as a major figure in world literature is primarily based on his ingenious and profound short stories, poems, and critical theories, which established a highly influential rationale for the short form in both poetry and fiction. Regarded in literary histories and handbooks as the architect of the modern short story, Poe was also the principal forerunner of the "art for art's sake" movement in nineteenth-century European literature. Whereas earlier critics predominantly concerned themselves with moral or ideological generalities, Poe focused his criticism on the specifics of style and construction that contributed to a work's effectiveness or failure. In his own work, he demonstrated a brilliant command of language and technique as well as an inspired and original imagination. Poe's poetry and short stories greatly influenced the French Symbolists of the late nineteenth century, who in turn altered the direction of modern literature. It is this philosophical and artistic transaction that accounts for much of Poe's importance in literary history.

Students will read, study and critique short stories written by Edgar Allen Poe.

Enduring Understandings

Great writers remain timeless across the centuries, and much can be learned about writing style and craft in studying the world's best writers' bodies of work.

All different types of subjects are tackled by great writers, with highly successful outcomes.

Essential Questions

What craft and style techniques does Edgar Allen Poe use to create the feelings his stories evoke?

How can a writer use the same techniques as Edgar Allen Poe to enhance thier own writing?

Days 1-3

Procedure:

Introduction to E.A. Poe:

1. Display on smartboard picture of Edgar Allan Poe
2. Distribute "Crime Scene Investigation: Was Edgar Allan Poe Murdered?" TpT packet.
3. Put students in 4 groups. Give each student a copy of the CSI Background Report Questions (Parts I-IV). At 4 tables will be a few copies of Crime Scene Investigation Background Report: The Younger Years (table 1), The School Years (table 2), Military Career (table 3), and Writing Career (table 4).
4. Students will spend about 8 minutes at each handout table. One student will read the handout aloud, and the group answers the questions on their sheets.
5. And then they go to the next table and repeat the process until each group has been at all 4 tables having read and answered all of the questions.
6. Display answer key for CSI: Background Report-parts I - IV found in TpT "CSI: E.A.Poe" file saved on TpT purchased file and make corrections.
6. Display on Smartboard the (TpT) PowerPoint "Poe's Death". Students will fill out the Death Report (approx. 12 mins.) or we can discuss students' findings on Poe's life.
7. Class discussion on his death, then fill out the Incident Report. (Students may take home Incident Report.)
8. Display on smartboard and read aloud: MPRnews "Even in death, Edgar Allan Poe remains a mystery" <https://www.mprnews.org/story/2015/10/07/books-literary-mystery-poe-death>
9. Watch Why Should You Read Edgar Allan Poe? On TedEd: (5 mins.) https://www.ted.com/talks/scott_peeples_why_should_you_read_edgar_allan_poe?language=en

Days 4-9

Procedure: In Google Classroom, post the following list of “The Raven” vocabulary words. Students will define vocabulary word, provide part of speech, and use the word in an original sentence using online dictionary or classroom dictionaries:

Dreary (sad, gloomy); bleak(not hopeful or encouraging); ghost; lost; sorrow; terrors; darkness; melancholy(depressed in spirits, dejected, sad); stern (harsh); dirges(a song or hymn of grief intended to accompany funeral or memorial rites); grave (somber, very serious); stillness

When reviewing the vocabulary words, note the biblical allusions within the figurative language.

Tell students that the vocabulary words they defined yesterday are from Poe’s famous poem, “The Raven”. Ask them to make some guesses about the setting and atmosphere of the poem such as: What time of day is it? What time of year? What is the author feeling? Is he alone or with other people?

Students listen to Christopher Walken’s narration of the poem “The Raven” (8:52= open culture version because it has visuals and words) with the words on the Smartboard (under 9 minutes). Distribute copy of “The Raven” and students will read it quietly, circling unfamiliar vocabulary and highlight/label figurative language. Now students reread poem, annotating any confusing areas. Share results and discuss.

Discuss what Poe wants the reader to believe has happened to the author of the poem before the night that is the setting for the poem. Comment that the universal appeal of the poem comes from its expression of the feeling of loneliness we are all subject to at some time in our lives due to separation from friends and/or family. Emphasize that these feelings, although at the time they may feel as inescapable as the hopelessness that seems to envelope the author, will pass and be replaced again by happiness and hope.

In groups, students will summarize the meaning of “The Raven” stanzas by writing the brief summaries on post-its which will be stuck to the poem pages.

On Smartboard, students analyze “The Raven” using the teacherfirst.com interactive website. Students will identify figurative language (alliteration: highlighted in blue and assonance: highlighted in purple), internal rhyme (internal rhyme explained as we progress through interactive website), and vocabulary they already defined when close reading the poem.

Listen to Christopher Walken read the poem again so students can better understand it after analyzing poem.

Watch The Simpson’s version of The Raven<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=bLiXjaPqSyY> (4 ½ minutes long) and students will reflect on what they learned from seeing the poem visually. Analyze the extent to which a filmed production of the poem remains faithful to or departs from the text, evaluating the choices made by the cartoonist.

Ask: Why did Poe choose a raven? (put on display my fake raven) Why not a cardinal? Students will research the internet and include answer in their annotations.

Students complete “Raven” test using a clean version of the poem, not their annotated version.

Compose a written description of the chamber focusing on details of setting. On the back of the paper, draw the chamber described. Finish for homework. Share description/drawing, collect, display.

Assessment: close reading; poem analysis, including annotating internal rhyme, figurative language and vocabulary; Poe research; Raven test; written description/drawing of chamber.

Day 10-22

Procedure:

1. Distribute “Tell Tale Heart” TpT packet. Listen to Sir Christopher Lee (youtube) narrate. Give students the 11 x 17” Tell Tale Heart Mind Map, and as students listen to Lee’s narration of the “Tell Tale Heart” with the words on the Smartboard, students will write notes, both pictures and words, on the mind map. (Sample mind maps from previous year in binder to model for students.) Let students listen to the poem two times while working on the mind map.

2. Students will then reread story, circling unfamiliar vocabulary and define and highlighting and identifying figurative language in groups. Next, groups will summarize the paragraphs of the short story using post-its.

3. To introduce mood, watch <https://scope.scholastic.com/issues/2016-17/090116/The-Tell-Tale-Heart.html#tab1>. (3:49) The Scholastic Scope toolkit “What’s Mood” video found in Scholastic: Scope: Tell Tale Heart Lesson Activities.

4. In pairs, students complete the Mood and Tone pages of “The Tell Tale Heart” packet, reading the highlighted passages from the short story, identifying the key words/phrases which help set the mood, and then explain the mood created by these phrases. Pair/share responses. Next, respond to Mood and Tone questions #1-9, including writing a short paragraph describing what the various tones are and how they work together to create the mood. Share responses whole class.

5. Distribute “The Tell-Tale Heart plot diagram. Explain exposition, conflict, rising action, climax, falling action, and resolution. Students then fill in plot diagram, discuss, and share.

6. Distribute Story Map-Edgar Allen Poe for “The Tell-Tale Heart.” Students complete chronological story map for this short story as a quiz. After graded and returned, students will then add the page # and paragraph # from the text where the event is found. Review.

7. Watch Tell Tale Heart: (10 minutes) https://www.youtube.com/watch?time_continue=4&v=RpEIMERxgi4

Homework: finish work above not completed in class

Assessment: mood and tone responses, paragraph, plot diagram, story map

Days 23-24

Procedure:

In Google Classroom post: “In Poe’s Words” directions to rewrite the ending of “The Tell Tale Heart.”

In Poe’s Words: Alternative ending to “Tell-Tale Heart” writing relay:

1. Put desks in large circle.
2. Each person will begin writing an alternative ending to “The Tell-Tale Heart”: start at end of paragraph 4 on page 3 of short story. First writer: type in your name in RED and start ending using red font; second writer: type in your name in BLUE and continue alternative ending; third writer=type in your name in GREEN and finish the alternative ending.
3. Ending must follow the mood of “The Tell-Tale Heart” and use the same voice/tone as Poe.
4. When time called, hand computer to person to your right.
5. Second writer will read what has already been written, type name in BLUE, and continue the alternative ending.
6. When time called, hand computer to person to your right.

7. Third writer will read what has already been written, type name in GREEN, and finish the alternative ending.
8. When time called, hand computer to person to your right.
9. This 4th person will score the essay by typing either 4, 3, 2, or 1 at the very bottom of the ending following this criteria:
 1. Did the group use as similar voice/tone as Poe?
 2. Did the point of view make sense?
 3. Did the ending paint a picture? Was it detailed enough to visualize?

SCORING:

4=100

3=85

2=70

START AT THIS POINT WITH YOUR ALTERNATIVE ENDING:

Page 3, end of paragraph 4:

I felt myself getting pale and wished them gone. My head ached, and I fancied a ringing in my ears; but still they sat and still chatted. The ringing became more distant:--It continued and became more distinct: I talked freely to get rid of the feeling: but it continued and gained definiteness--until, at length, I found that the noise was not within my ears.

Assessment: homework, alternative narrative ending

Day 25-28

Procedure:

In preparation for Spider Web Socratic Seminar, distribute "Narrator is Insane/Sane" packet (TpT) Students will read the textual evidence from the short story first depicting narrator's insanity . Students will explain how the textual evidence proves the narrator is insane. Students will then find more textual evidence proving insanity and explain. Next, students will read textual evidence from the short story depicting narrator is sane and explain how it proves sanity. Then students will find more textual evidence proving sanity and explain it.

Finish for homework. Teacher checks accuracy.

Spider Web Socratic Seminar (from The Best Class You Never Taught by Alexis Wiggins): desks put in large circle. Students will be given a copy of the Spider Web Discussion Directions/Rubric/Key (see below) and a position to support: narrator was insane or sane. Conduct seminar responding to sanity of narrator.

Spider Web Discussion Directions/Rubric

Because this is a group effort, there will be a group grade. The whole class will get the same grade.

The following list indicates what you need to accomplish, as a class, to earn an A.

Have a truly hard-working, analytical discussion that includes these factors:

1. Everyone has participated in a meaningful and substantive way and, more or less, equally.
2. A sense of balance and order prevails; focus is on one speaker at a time and one idea at a time. The discussion is lively, and the pace is right (not hyper or boring).
3. The discussion builds and there is an attempt to resolve questions and issues before moving on to new ones. Big ideas and deep insights are not brushed over or missed.
4. Comments are not lost, the loud or verbose students do not dominate, the shy and quiet students are encouraged.
5. Students listen carefully and respectfully to one another. For example, no one talks, daydreams, rustles papers, makes faces or uses laptops when someone else is speaking because this communicates disrespect and undermines the discussion as a whole. Also, no one offers sarcastic or glib comments.
6. Everyone is clearly understood. Any comments that are not heard or understood are urged to be repeated.
7. Students take risks and dig for deep meaning, new insights.
8. Students back up what they say with examples and textual evidence/quotations regularly throughout the discussion. Dialectical Journals and/or the text are read from out loud often to support discussion.
9. Literary features/writing style and class vocabulary are given special attention and mention. There are at least one literary feature AND one new vocabulary word used correctly in each discussion.

*The class earns an A by doing all these items at an impressively high level. (Rare and difficult!)

*The class earns a B by doing most items on this list. (A pretty good discussion.)

*The class earns a C for doing half or slightly more than half of what is on this list.

*The class earns a D for doing less than half of what is on the list.

*The class earns an F if the discussion is a real mess or complete dud and virtually nothing on this list is accomplished or genuinely attempted.

Unprepared or unwilling students will bring the group down as a whole. Please remember this as you read and write notes on the assignments and prepare for class discussion students for 2nd, final SGO assessment.

Extension Activity:

Procedure:

While viewing the film version of “The Tell-Tale Heart,” students analyze the extent to which the filmed production of this short story stays faithful to or departs from the text, evaluating the choices made by the director or actors. When done viewing, students write an essay using these notes. Submit in Google Classroom and teacher comments in Docs. Students will then revise based on teacher guidance for 2 class periods. Students will then share essay with a partner for peer review, read essay to self aloud, then re-submit in Google Classroom.

Assessment: notes, essay, peer review, revision

The United States system of government is designed to realize the ideals of liberty, democracy, limited government, equality under the law and of opportunity, justice, and property rights.

VA.6-8.1.5.8.Pr4

Selecting, analyzing and interpreting work.

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.
- Definitions of Differentiation Components:
 - Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
 - Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
 - Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
 - Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit: Graphic organizers; highlighted models; small group instruction as needed

Modifications and Accommodations

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMODATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Benchmark Assessments

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

Formative Assessments

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit: "The Raven" figurative language presentations; journal entries; in-class discussions

Summative Assessments

Summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit: "The Tell-Tale Heart" story map quiz; "The Raven" final test
