Unit Description

The Holocaust was a historical event that affected so many people in many different ways, and continues to do so even today. In studying this unimaginably devastating event through quality literature, and other media, students will develop an understanding of the pervasive political unrest leading up to the Holocaust, what occurred during that time in history, and how, despite the trauma, the undominable human spirit allowed people to cope and rise above it. Students will think, discuss, and write about what they learn, and develop an understanding of why it is necessary that they become the keepers of the past, so that it will not be allowed to happen again in their lifetime.

Essential Questions

What can we learn from the Holocaust that will help us shape a future that does not repeat the horrific events of that time?

Where do people get the inner strength to survive such events?

How does good literature about this event in the past help us understand the Holocaust, and how does that literature help us to form our opinions, beliefs and convictions?

How do good writing skills and practices allow us to express our thoughts and share them with others on a deeper level than just through discussion?

Differentiation

- Understand that gifted students, just like all students, come to school to learn and be challenged.
- Pre-assess your students. Find out their areas of strength as well as those areas you may need to address before students move on.
- Consider grouping gifted students together for at least part of the school day.
- Plan for differentiation. Consider pre-assessments, extension activities, and compacting the curriculum.
- Use phrases like "You've shown you don't need more practice" or "You need more practice" instead of words like "qualify" or "eligible" when referring to extension work.
- Encourage high-ability students to take on challenges. Because they're often used to getting good grades, gifted students may be risk averse.
- Definitions of Differentiation Components:
 - Content – the specific information that is to be taught in the lesson/unit/course of instruction.
 - Process – how the student will acquire the content information.
 - Product – how the student will demonstrate understanding of the content.
 - Learning Environment – the environment where learning is taking place including physical location and/or student grouping

Differentiation occurring in this unit:

Student choice in writing topics

Flexible grouping for instruction

Differentiated resources to match reader readiness

Variety of reading levels for additional research

multiple assessment techniques

Differentiated levels of support for individuals based on ability throughout reading and writing process

Modifications and Accommodations

Refer to QSAC EXCEL SMALL SPED ACCOMMODATIONS spreadsheet in this discipline.

Modifications and Accommodations used in this unit:

In class support and modifications based on individual IEP's

Benchmark Assessments

Benchmark Assessments are given periodically (e.g., at the end of every quarter or as frequently as once per month) throughout a school year to establish baseline achievement data and measure progress toward a standard or set of academic standards and goals.

Schoolwide Benchmark assessments:

Aimsweb benchmarks 3X a year

Linkit Benchmarks 3X a year

Additional Benchmarks used in this unit:

Writing samples

Linkit testing 3 times a year.

Formative Assessment

Assessment allows both instructor and student to monitor progress towards achieving learning objectives, and can be approached in a variety of ways. Formative assessment refers to tools that identify misconceptions, struggles, and learning gaps along the way and assess how to close those gaps. It includes effective tools for helping to shape learning, and can even bolster students' abilities to take ownership of their learning when they understand that the goal is to improve learning, not apply final marks (Trumbull and Lash, 2013). It can include students assessing themselves, peers, or even the instructor, through writing, quizzes, conversation, and more. In short, formative assessment occurs throughout a class or course, and seeks to improve student achievement of learning objectives through approaches that can support specific student needs (Theal and Franklin, 2010, p. 151).

Formative Assessments used in this unit:

Assessments: Teacher observation; PowerPoint/Prezi presentation;

Homework; discussion; critical thinking questions: responses to: reading comprehension, literary analysis, plot/subplot, and thematic connections questions; explanatory writing prompts; responses to literary analysis grammar work; open-ended responses; explanatory essays, spelling and vocabulary quizzes for Acts I and II, Act I and II tests; film vs. play analysis comparison/contrast written evaluation and explanatory essay

Summative Assessment

Summative assessments evaluate student learning, knowledge, proficiency, or success at the conclusion of an instructional period, like a unit, course, or program. Summative assessments are almost always formally graded and often heavily weighted (though they do not need to be). Summative assessment can be used to great effect in conjunction and alignment with formative assessment, and instructors can consider a variety of ways to combine these approaches.

Summative assessments for this unit:

Final graded essays and projects.
