Cross-Curricular Integration/Asian American Pacific Islander

Integration Area: Language Arts/ Asian American Pacific Islander History

- W.3.2, Write informative/explanatory texts to examine a topic and convey ideas and information clearly
- W.3.8., Recall information from experiences or gather information from print and digital sources; take brief notes on sources and sort evidence into provided categories.
- W.3.10. Write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, metacognition/self correction and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline specific tasks, purposes, and audiences.

Activity:

We will read the interactive read aloud story “Dumpling Soup” with the class which features predominantly Asian-American and Pacific Islanders and their culture. We will discuss the importance of their cultural attributes and how they positively affect America. Students will write a response to the story.

CRLKs- 21st Century

9.1.5.RMI.1: Identify risks that individuals and households face.

Connection: Individuals can choose to accept inevitable risk or take steps to protect themselves by avoiding or reducing risk.

Diversity Integration

Race and Ethnicity

Objective:

SWBAT identify and recognize cultural highlights of Native Americans in the past.

Activity:

Before reading, teachers will do the KWL chart with the class. Teachers will discuss the two Pilgrim books that we have previously read that talked about the day in the life of a pilgrim. Then we will introduce the book about Tapenum, a Native American living in the same area. How do they think his day will be different? We will then read the story aloud together, highlighting similarities and differences between the Native people and the Pilgrims. After reading, students will work in a small group on a Venn diagram comparing Indigenous People and the Pilgrims. Then students will compare their lives to Tapenum's using different Venn Diagrams.
