Asian American Pacific Islander Integration

Objective: Students will be able to identify the contributions made to the California Gold Rush and their impact on the settlement of California.

Activity:

After reading the California Gold Rush section of Chapter 13 lesson 4 on page 365, students will watch an EdPuzzle titled Chinese and the Gold Rush. While watching the video, they will answer questions about the content

Cross-Curricular Integration

Integration Area: Visual and Performing Arts

1.1.8.B.1 Analyze the application of the elements of music in diverse Western and non-Western musical works from different historical eras using active listening and by reading and interpreting written scores.

Activity:

Presidential elections became more like elections we see today. When John Quincy Adams and Andrew Jackson ran for president in 1828 campaign slogans, songs, and rallies begin. John Quincy Adams wrote an anti-Jackson song titled, "Little Know Ye Who's Coming." Students will listen to the song and view the lyrics. Students will list ways John Quincy Adams tries to discredit Jackson and persuade voters in the campaign song. Students will use the song to understand how elements the song reflected the culture in the U.S. They will interpret how the lyrics of the song could impact Jackson's presidential election. Students will discuss reasons why they believe this song had no impact on the election results and why Jackson's campaign gets him elected to the presidency.

Holocaust

Objective: Students will be able to analyze a quote from their Language Arts novel, The Boy Who Dared to compare and contrast the Holocaust to the Trail of Tears.

Materials: Textbook chapter 12, organizer on SMART TV, SMART Notebook, BrainPop, station worksheets

Activity:

- Students will discuss the meaning behind the quote in their Language Arts novel, The Boy Who Dared. "No one wants the Jews. Not even America. Americans have no right to criticize us. They rounded up their Indians, you know. Put them on reservations." pg. 68. The quote will be placed on the TV for discussion.
- To analyze the quote, the students will first review what they learned about the Trail of Tears from their station rotation work.

- Once reviewed, students will view a Brain Pop video clip on the Holocaust to further their understanding of the event.
- After viewing the video, students will work in cooperative groups to complete a Venn Diagram on the events.
- Students will share their findings and a matching Venn Diagram will be viewed in SMART notebook.
- Students will decide if they support the statement made in their novel. They will explain why or why not using text evidence.
- Students will share their responses.

Assessment: completion of station rotation, Venn Diagram, cooperative group work, written response using text evidence, BrainPop quiz results

Length of Time: 5 Days

Social and Emotional Learning

Five Civilized Tribes

- PLAN Problem Solving
- Collaborative Creativity
- Audience-Focused Communication

Students work cooperatively in groups to research material about their chosen tribe and then teach it to the rest of their classmates. They break down the assignment together and decide how it will be taught and who assumes the various teaching responsibilities. When the lesson is complete, the groups will provide detailed notes to their classmates. Each group will assess their classmates. One assessment is an SEL interactive question that has no wrong answer to involve all classmates

- Responsible Listening
- Respectful Empathic Debate
- Peer Opinion Sharing: Yes-No- Maybe* STAT discussion questions
- Audience-Focused Communication

Each group of students will represent the Five Civilized Tribes. They are the Cherokee, Creek, Chickasaw, Seminole and Choctaw. Using Google Slides or another preferred method, the student groups will teach the other students about their tribe's civilization and customs. Student audience members are encouraged to empathize with the plight of the various tribes and to put themselves in the moccasins of one of its members

- Responsible Listening
- Peer Opinion Sharing: Yes-No- Maybe* STAT discussion questions
- Audience-Focused Communication

When all of the groups have finished, students will then discuss salient points about the tribes and empathize with what the members of the tribes had to go through on the Trail of Tears. Students will also discuss what they got out of the lesson. Respectful dialogue can only occur when people are willing to truly listen to what others are saying. There are no right or wrong answers in this lesson.

Social Studies Skills

6.1.8.HistoryCC.4.c Analyze how the concept of Manifest Destiny influenced the acquisition of land through annexation, diplomacy, and war.

Spatial Thinking

Use maps and other documents to explain the historical migration of people, expansion, and disintegration of empires, and growth of economic and political systems.

Activity:

Students will create a Manifest Destiny Map. They will label how the U.S. acquired all the lands from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. Students will use a Who, What, Where, When, Why, and How graphic organizer to explain how the U.S. acquired these lands. Students will explain how the U.S. made each land acquisition and why the U.S. wanted to make the land acquisition.

Critical Thinking

Analyze primary and secondary sources for reconstruction the past and understanding historical perspectives.

Activity:

Students will analyze and evaluate Andrew Jackson's policies related to Native Americans. They will use a journal entry from a private soldier describing the Cherokee removal from their homes, a painting depicting the Trail of Tears, and a map of Native American relocation to explain the effects Indian Removal had on the Native Americans.

CSDT Technology Integration

8.1.8.A.2 Create a document (e.g. newsletter, reports, personalized learning plan, business letters or flyers) using one or more digital applications to be critiqued by professionals for usability.

Activity:

Students will create a Manifest Destiny Map and learn how the U.S. mainland became the size it is today.

Students will research the treaties/war that gave the U.S. the land from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean. Students will complete a graphic organizer on google classroom to explain who the land was acquired from, what land was acquired, where the land is located, when the land was acquired, why the U.S. wanted to gain the land, and, how we gained the land (treaty/war) The graphic organizer and map will be created digitally for review.
