Technology Integration

8.1.5.CS.2: Model how computer software and hardware work together as a system to accomplish tasks.

Activity:

Students are shown how to access school's online library catalog, and how to read search results to find where important information can be found, like author's name, the book's call number, or address in the library, and whether a book is checked in or checked out. Students then search Follett Destiny library catalog to locate information required to answer specific questions. Students can then search for books that they are interested in borrowing, and see where the books are in the library.

Technology Connection

8.1.5.CS.2: Model how computer software and hardware work together as a system to accomplish tasks.
