

L.5.2d

Use underlining, quotation marks, or italics to indicate titles of works.

* Required

1. Email *

2. Write your first and last name. *

3. How should you write the title of a book or a magazine? *

2 points

Check all that apply.

- ☐ Underline it
- ☐ Italicize it
- ☐ Put Quotation Marks around it

4. How should you write the title of a short story, poem, song or chapter? *

1 point

Check all that apply.

- ☐ Underline it
- ☐ Italicize it
- ☐ Put Quotation Marks around it

Read the paragraph below, then rewrite each highlighted phrase correctly using proper capitalization and quotation marks if it applies.

5. the encyclopedia of snakes *

1 point

Sam loved snakes. He loved snakes so much, that every night his mother read to him from the encyclopedia of snakes. His favorite song was I don't like spiders and snakes. He subscribed to snake owner's monthly, and was intimately familiar with chapter six of the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends. During silent reading at school he enjoyed reading sammy the snake. When he wasn't looking at the snakes in pet stores, Sam liked to write about snakes. His poem snakebite was published in the school magazine, right next to a poem called the mouse who came for dinner, which Sam thought was both hilarious and ironic.

6. I don't like spiders and snakes *

1 point

Sam loved snakes. He loved snakes so much, that every night his mother read to him from the encyclopedia of snakes. His favorite song was I don't like spiders and snakes. He subscribed to snake owner's monthly, and was intimately familiar with chapter six of the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends. During silent reading at school he enjoyed reading sammy the snake. When he wasn't looking at the snakes in pet stores, Sam liked to write about snakes. His poem snakebite was published in the school magazine, right next to a poem called the mouse who came for dinner, which Sam thought was both hilarious and ironic.

7. snake owner's monthly *

1 point

Sam loved snakes. He loved snakes so much, that every night his mother read to him from the encyclopedia of snakes. His favorite song was I don't like spiders and snakes. He subscribed to snake owner's monthly, and was intimately familiar with chapter six of the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends. During silent reading at school he enjoyed reading sammy the snake. When he wasn't looking at the snakes in pet stores, Sam liked to write about snakes. His poem snakebite was published in the school magazine, right next to a poem called the mouse who came for dinner, which Sam thought was both hilarious and ironic.

8. the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends *

1 point

Sam loved snakes. He loved snakes so much, that every night his mother read to him from the encyclopedia of snakes. His favorite song was I don't like spiders and snakes. He subscribed to snake owner's monthly, and was intimately familiar with chapter six of the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends. During silent reading at school he enjoyed reading sammy the snake. When he wasn't looking at the snakes in pet stores, Sam liked to write about snakes. His poem snakebite was published in the school magazine, right next to a poem called the mouse who came for dinner, which Sam thought was both hilarious and ironic.

9. sammy the snake *

1 point

Sam loved snakes. He loved snakes so much, that every night his mother read to him from the encyclopedia of snakes. His favorite song was I don't like spiders and snakes. He subscribed to snake owner's monthly, and was intimately familiar with chapter six of the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends. During silent reading at school he enjoyed reading sammy the snake. When he wasn't looking at the snakes in pet stores, Sam liked to write about snakes. His poem snakebite was published in the school magazine, right next to a poem called the mouse who came for dinner, which Sam thought was both hilarious and ironic.

10. snakebite *

1 point

Sam loved snakes. He loved snakes so much, that every night his mother read to him from the encyclopedia of snakes. His favorite song was I don't like spiders and snakes. He subscribed to snake owner's monthly, and was intimately familiar with chapter six of the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends. During silent reading at school he enjoyed reading sammy the snake. When he wasn't looking at the snakes in pet stores, Sam liked to write about snakes. His poem snakebite was published in the school magazine, right next to a poem called the mouse who came for dinner, which Sam thought was both hilarious and ironic.

11. the mouse who came for dinner *

1 point

Sam loved snakes. He loved snakes so much, that every night his mother read to him from the encyclopedia of snakes. His favorite song was I don't like spiders and snakes. He subscribed to snake owner's monthly, and was intimately familiar with chapter six of the big book of animals, snakes, our slimy friends. During silent reading at school he enjoyed reading sammy the snake. When he wasn't looking at the snakes in pet stores, Sam liked to write about snakes. His poem snakebite was published in the school magazine, right next to a poem called the mouse who came for dinner, which Sam thought was both hilarious and ironic.

This content is neither created nor endorsed by Google.

Google Forms