Essential Questions

- How do I locate, organize, analyze, evaluate, synthesize, and ethically use information from a variety of sources and media?
- How do I analyze data to identify solutions and/or make informed decisions?
- Why do I need to know how to use a database?
- How do I build, sort and filter data in a database so that it is meaningful for my purposes?
- Why is a spreadsheet such an important technology tool?
- How do I create, format, and edit meaningful information in a spreadsheet?
- How can I use a spreadsheet to benefit my school work or for any personal activities?

Big Ideas

- Detailed examples exist to illustrate crediting others when incorporating their digital artifacts in one's own work.
- There are tradeoffs between allowing information to be public and keeping information private and secure.
- Provide appropriate citation and attribution elements when creating media products.
- Digital footprints are publicly accessible, even if only shared with a select group. Appropriate measures such as proper interactions can protect online reputations.
- Digital communities are used by Individuals to share information, organize, and engage around issues and topics of interest.
- Digital technology and data can be leveraged by communities to address effects of climate change.
- Sometimes a technology developed for one purpose is adapted to serve other purposes.
- Resources need to be utilized wisely to have positive effects on the environment and society.
- Some technological decisions involve tradeoffs between environmental and economic needs, while others have positive effects for both the economy and environment.

Activities

- Let's Plan a Graduation Party
  - Scenario: You are finally graduating from middle school and your parents have agreed to host a graduation party for you and 48 of your closest friends and family (50 ppl total). You are in charge of planning the party and your parents have budgeted on $3,000 to host the party. You will use the Google Sheets to calculate the expenses of the party and make adjustments until you meet the $3000 limit.

- Plan an Event
  - Students will create a spreadsheet on the items needed to throw a successful party. Information will include: Items needed, bought form, amount, cost per item, and total. Students will need to insert functions in order to determine totals and the grand total.
  - Students will plan an event, in which they will research similar events, create an event plan, and organize tasks in a spreadsheet. Then, they will use Gmail and Calendar to communicate about their event. Finally, they will market their event by creating a logo, flyer and website.
- Plan and Budget
  - Students will use Google Sheets to compare products, categorize monthly expenses, research car loans, conduct a cost-analysis, and create code to track changes to their budget. Then they will plan and budget for a Spring Break vacation of their choice.
