STUDENT LEARNING TARGETS

Declarative Knowledge

Students will understand that:

- Disposable income is income remaining after deduction of taxes and other mandatory charges, available to be spent or saved as one wishes.
- Net income, also called net earnings, is sales minus cost of goods sold, general expenses, taxes, and interest.
- Gross income includes all of your sources of income.
- Taxes are taken out of one's gross income thereby reducing it.
- Various sources of income may be wages, dividends, capital gains, business income.
- There are nine different types of taxes in the United States (sales, sin, travel, capital gains, inheritance/estate, income, value added, payroll and property).
- The three levels of government (local, state, and federal) determine which of the nine types of taxation (and the rate) they will use to fund their programs, activities and initiatives.
- Breaking federal and/or state employment or financial laws may result in financial penalties, jail time, probation, lawsuits, or employment status.
- The economy of the United States describes the way people spend money and the way people make money.
- Recent society needs may include but are not limited to an aging population (baby boomers), desire to better the environment, and an increased awareness of health.
- Recent employment trends may include but are not limited to an increase in jobs related to solar energy, wind energy, nurses and a decline in executive secretaries and administrative assistants.
- Employment trends are a reflection of the health of the United States economy as well as societal needs.
- Education level impacts job security. The higher the education level the less likely one will be unemployed.
- The circular flow model of economics shows how money moves through an economy in a constant loop from producers to consumers and back again.
- Imports are products or services bought from other countries.
- Exports are products or services that are sold to other countries.
- Domestic means it is a product or service made in the United States.
- Inflation is the increase in the prices of goods & services over time.
- A consumer is a person who uses or buys products or services.
- An increase in income may result in an increase in the demand for goods and services while a decrease in income may result in a decrease in demand for goods and services.
- Currency exchange rate can impact merchandise trade, economic growth, capital flows, inflation and interest rates.
- Fraud is the wrongful or criminal deception intended to result in financial or personal gain.
- Consumer protection laws help to address fraud.
