STUDENT LEARNING TARGETS

Refer to the 'Declarative Knowledge' and 'Procedural Knowledge' sections.

Declarative Knowledge

Students will understand that:

- every human experiences tragedy.
- once an actor has experienced even a small loss, they are able to express a great tragedy.
- author's word choice impacts meaning and tone.

Procedural Knowledge

Students will be able to:

- view tragedy and objectively observe the actions of those involved.
- recognize tragedy in their own experience.

- translate their tragedy into a performance of another's.
- determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in the text, including figurative and connotative meanings.
- come to discussions prepared, having read or researched material under study.
- cite strong and thorough textual evidence.
- apply the understanding that usage is a matter of convention, can change over time, and is sometimes contested.
- vary syntax for effect, apply an understanding of syntax to the study of complex texts. • by the end of grades 11-12, read and comprehend literature, including stories, dramas, and poems, at the high ends of the grade 11-CCR text complexity band independently and proficiently. • support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text, including determining where the text leaves matters uncertain.
- present information, findings, and supporting evidence clearly, concisely, and logically such that listeners can follow the line of reasoning and the organization, development, substance, and style are appropriate to purpose, audience, and task.
- explicitly draw on that preparation by referring to evidence from texts and other research on the topic or issue to stimulate a thoughtful, well-reasoned exchange of ideas.
- demonstrate knowledge of eighteenth-, nineteenth- and early-twentieth-century foundational works of American literature, including how two or more texts from the same period treat similar themes or topics.
- analyze the impact of the author's choices regarding how to develop and relate elements of a story or drama.
- analyze the impact of specific word choices on meaning and tone, including words with multiple meanings or language that is particularly fresh, engaging, or beautiful.
- analyze multiple interpretations of a story, drama, or poem evaluating how each version interprets the source text.
- analyze how an author's choices concerning how to structure specific parts of a text contribute to its overall structure and meaning as well as its aesthetic impact.
- analyze a case in which grasping a point of view requires distinguishing what is directly stated in a text from what is really meant.
- write routinely over extended time frames (time for research, reflection, and revision) and shorter time frames (a single sitting or a day or two) for a range of discipline-specific tasks, purposes, and audiences.

EVIDENCE OF LEARNING

Refer to the 'Formative Assessments' and 'Summative Assessments' sections.
