Unit Overview

The Civil War stands as the most divisive and brutal era in American history. This unit focuses on its causes, the conflict itself, and the bitter years of Reconstruction that followed the four-year war between the North and the South.

Enduring Understandings

The Missouri Compromise was an 1819 agreement to admit Maine (free state) and Missouri (slave state) to the Union to maintain equal number of slave and free states

In 1858, Lincoln challenged Douglas to a series of debates in the campaign for the Senate.

After the Confederates shelled the fort, the Union forces surrendered to the Confederate forces on April 13, 1861.

The goal of the South was to become an independent nation and to preserve its traditional way of life. The goal of the North was to preserve the Union.

Lincoln believed that slavery was wrong, but he did not want to turn the slave-holding border states against the Union. Also, he was not sure that enough people in the Union would fight against slavery.

At the time, no slaves were freed; the Proclamation affected only slaves in Confederate states not under Union control. Enslaved African Americans and in Union border states in the Union-held Confederate territories were not covered.
