Content Area: Reading
Course(s): Reading 5
Time Period: June
Length: 3 weeks
Status: Published

Unit/Module Overview

In Module 11: In this module, students are learning about nonfiction texts and how they help us understand real-life topics. The class explores different types of nonfiction, like biographies, articles, and informational books. They practice identifying key features such as headings, captions, and bold words, which help organize important information. Students also learn how to find the main idea and supporting details in a paragraph. Through group discussions, reading activities, and fun research projects, they begin to see how nonfiction helps them learn about the world around them in a clear and factual way.

Essential Question:

- Week 1: What are the characteristics of informational text?
- Week 2: What are the characteristics of narrative nonfiction?
- Week 3: What are the characteristics of persuasive text?

Standards

ELA.RI.CR.5.1	Quote accurately from an informational text when explaining what the text says explicitly and make relevant connections when drawing inferences from the text.
ELA.RI.CI.5.2	Determine the central idea of an informational text and explain how it is supported by key details; summarize the text.
ELA.RI.IT.5.3	Analyze the impact of two or more individuals and events throughout the course of a text, explaining the relationships or interactions between two or more individuals, events, ideas, or concepts in a historical, scientific, or technical text based on specific evidence in the text.
ELA.RI.PP.5.5	Analyze multiple accounts of the same event or topic, noting important similarities and differences in the point of view they represent and how that may influence the reader's interpretation.
ELA.RI.AA.5.7	Explain how an author uses reasons and evidence to support particular points in a text, identifying which reasons and evidence support which point(s).
