Big Idea

A community is where we live, work and play

Enduring Understanding

All students will acquire the knowledge and skills to think analytically about how past and present interactions of people, cultures and the environment shape the American heritage. Such knowledge and skills enable students to make informed decisions that reflect fundamental rights and core democratic values as productive citizens in local, national and global communities (6.1.4.D.11)

Essential Questions

What is a community?

What takes place in a community?

What are the different types of communities?

Skills

Skills & Activities include but not limited to:

List places you pass on your way to school where you know people live, work and play

Determine how local and state communities have changed over time, and explain the reasons for changes

Design a mural to represent a community

Label key features of a rural, urban and suburban community

Create a classroom culture quilt

Working in a group, develop own community on a large sheet of paper

Learning Targets include but not limited to:

There are places where we can live, work and play in our community

Personal, family and community history is a source of information for individuals to learn about the people and places around them

Interdisciplinary Connections

- Academic and Technical Rigor - Projects are designed to address key learning standards identified by the school or district.
- Authenticity - Projects use a real world context (e.g., community and workplace problems) and address issues that matter to the students.
- Applied Learning - Projects engage students in solving problems calling for competencies expected in high-performance work organizations (e.g., teamwork, problem-solving, communication, etc.).
- Active Exploration - Projects extend beyond the classroom by connecting to internships, fieldbased investigations, and community explorations.
- Adult Connections - Projects connect students with adult mentors and coaches from the wider community.
- Assessment Practices - Projects involve students in regular, performance-based exhibitions and assessments of their work; evaluation criteria reflect personal, school, and real-world standards of performance.
