Complete, Simple, and Compound Subjects

The complete subject of a sentence includes all the words that tell who or what the sentence is about.

Example:

Everyone in my house is keeping a secret.

The simple subject is the main word or words in the complete subject.

Example:

Everyone in my house is keeping a secret.

Sometimes the complete subject and the simple subject are the same.

Example:

Marlon practiced and daydreamed for weeks before the game.

A compound subject contains two or more subjects that have the same predicate. The simple subjects in a compound subject are usually joined by and or or.

Example:

The craters and plains of the moon have had no human visitors for some time.

Underline the complete subject in each sentence. Then, write the simple subject on the line.
